High in B flat, F—ab (g) (V893); Low in F, c—Eb (D) (V897)

In this latest of his songs, Charles Wakefield Cadman reaches heights of melodic inspiration quite in excess of any of his previous achievements. Spontaneous inventive originality combined with undeniable melodic charm give it prominence as one of the outstanding songs of its class. Easy for the singer and accompanist and equally serviceable for studio or recital needs.50
